Chatterbox don't bring presents

You know when you get those really beautiful invitations sent out by 'The society people', and then along the line somewhere they say 'don't bring presents'! Now that always fascinates me, because I just love presents, any presents at any time, but especially on special occasions like Birthdays! I mean I have worked so hard to reach that Birthday, and presents just make it, especially if I organise a party to go with it. The givers excuse is always that these people have everything, but I don't suffer from that. First of all we just love our garden and it's got quite a lot of space for the more expensive variety of plants. So that's easy enough. Then I am very artistic so gift vouchers to art shops are the absolute best. If you are shy about how much you are giving, then buy some paints, or canvases, or drawing pens and gel pens and the list is endless. All highly appreciated gifts. I always take Birthday pot plants, which incidentally I always love and I am sure other people do too. They are just to say so, common people we are just little kids at heart really when it comes to pressies. My gardener Bongani was in our bedroom on Friday together with Annie, and we were on Friday together with Annie, and we were trying to move our exceptionally heavy King Size bed to clear away all the stuff under the bed, including all the donations flicked under there buy our darling cats, Tom and Brandy. This includes bottle tops, Christmas decorations, pens, food, berries, beads, the or with here analysis and the pension of the control of the tipex, rubbers, spectacles, make-up and many other things that mysteriously disappeared. To cut a long story short, Bongani informs me, as he spies the fruit bowl on the table, I see your bananas are going rotten, I don't mind rotten bananas and they give me strength. So I hand him one, and he chomps it down in one fell swoop. I asked if he enjoyed it and he said, no I really wanted two!" I had to laugh and so did Annie, so I gave him another one. He was delighted and after we had done all the cleaning up, I told him it was time to hit the garden, then as he was walking out, still eyeing the fruit bowl, he said he would be so much stronger if he could also have a naartjie. I must say I adore him; he has got such a sense of humour. One day I was in the garden instructing him on his day's jobs, and Annie had followed me out as I was telling him what a bad job he had done the previous week. Suddenly he spots Annie

Enjoy Responsibly. Not For Sales To Persons Under The Age Of 18

and asks her what she was doing out in the garden, her job was inside. He really does make me laugh. He also takes my car in and out of the garage for cleaning, much to Beloveds horror, but when he is doing that he always looks around the estate and sees some staff members from other houses, and then with head held high he reverses my car out and goes and parks it on the plot next-door, and then checks that the other workers had seen him That's me for now, love Chatterbox

WOODCHIPPER FOR HIRE – Fred the Feller 082 448 9503 We were pleased to be asked by Rene Bongers the co-owner, to give our opinion regarding their specially remodelled room and bathroom for the DIFFERENTLY-ABLED The caring for this sector of the population which is so often overlooked was most gratifying and we were able to leave with a novel idea for a shower chair which we managed to get in George on our way home to Plett. We duly invested in three of these light, inexpensive, durable chairs, they are so much more user-friendly than the plastic garden chairs normally used in showers for someone who is DIFFERENT-LY-ABLED. #### LETS STAND TOGETHER AND PROTECT OUR PRECIOUS PLETT KIDS!!!

We read and hear about child abuse almost daily and not in far off places, but on our own doorstep. Are incidences on the increase or is a higher level of awareness being created by social media? Whatever the case may be, parents will have to step in and provide their children with the ability to recognise dangerous situations and also how to deal with it. Most cases of abuse results at the hands of the adults that are already well known to the children. In many cases children are abused by adults whom they not only trust but also love, resulting in confusion for the children especially when they're abused by adults who are supposed to be worthy of their trust. Therefore, when they're Following are some important tips that parents can follow in order to prevent child abuse.

One of the most important things we can teach our children is "NO" If they grow up with the world (in a positive way) and they know that there are boundaries saying "no" when it is necessary will come easy for them.

Communication – As important as the above, but sadly does not exist in most of houses, regardless it being a shack or mansion Children must learn to share their ideas, routine, and emotions with parents Communication plays a stronger key in understanding your child's behaviour as well as their daily routine.

It is vitally important that parents know who their friends are and even more important getting to know their friend's parents Know what your child's interest are and talk to them about it. Show interest! If there is a clear channel of communication between child and parent and something happens to the child he/she will be more willing to talk than where there is no communication.

Where kids are and what they do must be general knowledge to parents

Social media

- can help kids:

stay connected with friends and family enhance their creativity by sharing ideas, music, and art

meet and interact with others who share similar interests communicate with educators and fellow students

What's bad about social media? Most teens:

Post photos of themselves online or use their real names on their profiles and photos, videos, and comments made online usually can't be taken back once they're posted. Even when a teen thinks something has been deleted, it can impossible to completely erase it from the Internet.

Posting an inappropriate photo can damage a reputation and cause problems years later — such sending a mean-spirited text, even as a joke, can be very hurtful to someone else and even taken as a threat

Posting their school name and the town where they live

Reveal their birthdates and interests Besides problems like cyberbullying and online predators, kids also can face the possibility of a physical encounter with the wrong person. Many newer apps automatically reveal the poster's location when they're used. This can tell anyone exactly where to find the person using the app. This can make them easy targets for online predators and others who might mean them harm.

Parents, do you know that most teenagers say that they have :

been contacted online by someone they didn't know in a way that made them feel scared or uncomfortable received online advertising that was inappropriate for their age lied about their age to get access to websites

Children have rights, also a right to privacy, but how far do we allow that privacy?

Young children should not have access to cellophanes should they be provided with a cell phone.

nothing more than a basic 'hello and good buy' is necessary

Cell phones should be checked Computers use should be monitored It's important to be aware of what your kids do online. But snooping can alienate them and damage the trust you've built together. The key is to stay involved in a way that makes your kids understand that you respect their privacy but want to make sure they're safe.

Tell your kids that it's important to: Be nice. Mean behaviour is not OK. Make it clear that you expect your kids to treat others with respect, and to never post hurtful or embarrassing messages. And ask them to always tell you about any harassing or bullying messages that others post.

Think twice before hitting "enter." Remind teens that what they post can be used against them. For example, letting the world know that you're off on vacation or posting your home address gives would-be robbers a chance to strike. Teens also should avoid posting specific locations of parties or events, as well as phone numbers.

Follow the "WWGS?" (What Would Grandma Say?) rule. Teach kids not to share anything on social media that they wouldn't want their teachers, college admissions officers, future bosses — and yes, grandma — to see.

Use privacy settings. Privacy settings are important. Go through them together to make sure your kids understand each one. Also, explain that passwords are there to protect them against things like identity theft. They should never share them with anyone, even a boyfriend, girlfriend, or best friend.

Don't "friend" strangers. "If you don't know them, don't friend them." This is a plain, simple — and safe — rule of thumb. Parents also can help keep kids grounded in the real world by putting limits on media use. Keep computers in public areas in the house, avoid laptops and smartphones in bedrooms, and set some rules on the use of technology (such as no devices at the dinner table).

And don't forget: Setting a good example through your own virtual behaviour can go a long way toward helping your kids use social media safely.

Tarewell to Joy Sachs
Today I bought yarn from Joy Sachs at Wool n More for the last time. I felt very sad that I would no longer see her (and the beloved Honey) for a chat and advice over my latest crochet project. Over many years I have bought fabulous thread from her and she has been a great help and inspiration to me. Visiting her shop has always been like entering Aladdin's Cave, full of rich and colourful yarns for every conceivable use. Today, on her last day at the shop, she did the draw for a knitted blanket that was raffled to benefit both Hospice and PAWS. It was typical of Joy that one of her last actions would be one to benefit the Plett community. She made an enormous contribution to many needy causes through her shop: knitted beanies, blankets and warm clothing all passed through her shop on their way to the less fortunate. She always had a community project on the go and her generosity will be missed. We wish her every happiness and good fortune on her adventure, as she embarks on a new life in Panama. My tops will be a reminder of happy times spent together. It is a great relief that Carol will be taking over Wool n More and I would like to wish her every success in her new venture. We look forward to continuing and expanding our creative projects with her help. Love from Marsja

How fortunate we are here on the Garden Route in our octopus-type setting, tentacles that can stretch for hundreds of kilometres to enjoy a magical 5 day trip in which we can experience and see so many landscapes and different ways of life from Ferraris to donkeycarts, lush green growth to soul-destroying drought-stricken areas, wherever we go however there is a constant reminder of the grand vastness, big skies and overall beauty of this wonderful country, our South Africa. Stayed in GEORGE on the first night then travelled on to OUDTSHOORN to visit our favourite, quaint trading store, restaurant, Smitswinkel, where our ever- roving eyes were constantly drawn to the oddities and unusual collection of WW11 side-car motorbikes in which sat model soldiers in full dress uniform to hobby collections also homemade goodies, there was so much else to see but we were unsure of just what the delay would be with the road works between Oudtshoorn and de Rust. Be sure to add at least an extra 30 minutes to your travelling time each way when you go.

We usually just whizz through DE RUST but decided to take time to find out why Country Life in their latest edition called it the Klein Karroo town that never sleeps. We can now understand why the local yokels gather at "Ray's" Coffee Shop. The treed garden is a pleasure in which to partake of a light meal and most importantly, that much needed cuppa. We visited a few quaint shops and found the owners and assistants to be most hospitable and friendly, certainly a little town that should not be overlooked or underestimated. There is a lot more there to mentioned, many places still to explore but that for next time, go see for yourselves and have fun, all so nostalgically normal.

Off to PRINCE ALBERT through the awesome, magnificent Meiringspoort, sometimes a bit scary but exciting. The current drought conditions are most evident here in the driedup river beds and tributaries which is quite incongruous when just a short hop away is a waterfall. The rondawel restrooms are extremely well maintained and clean should you want to make a pit-stop.

Arriving at Prince Albert, we stayed at Swartberg Hotel with its olde-worlde Victoria dining room where we felt as though we had stepped back in time, the beautiful art, crisp, white table cloths, patterned wallpaper and huge portions of good food. Do try the cosy pub, the welcoming lounge with its huge fireplace Exploring the many interesting little shops one can just feel that there is no need to rush, if they decide to close for the afternoon or take an hour or two off, who cares? The Tourism office is a most well informed one and are happy to elaborate on further activities in the area. Having the Museum so close to the Tourism Office was very convenient and what an amazing, interesting time we had, housed in really aged premises with old, creaking Pine floors from a bygone era, arrows point you in the right direction so as not to miss any of the numerous items on display in the many rooms, the Museum is a must-see.

Museum is a must-see. The fourth night was spent at Eight Bells, just 35 k's from Mosselbay. Set in the most tranquil surrounds with the rolling mountain ranges providing a backdrop for the well maintained, treed gardens. The rooms are spacious and light, we actually stayed in what used to be the stables of the inn, now modernised of course. #### BATS feedback on The Mousetrap. We at BATS are thrilled that our recent production of The Mousetrap was such an enormous success. Not only were all 5 nights completely sold out (with waiting lists), but the critical reception was extremely positive. Wherever we go, people are still talking about how much they enjoyed the show. They are very complimentary about the set and the performances achieved, especially by our new young actors. We have had a marvellous time over the past months, rehearsing, building the set and preparing a myriad details to stage this iconic play. We have made wonderful new friends, discovered hidden talents and have enjoyed the magic of live theatre. It is our great pleasure to donate R53 000 to PAWS and R7 000 to St Peter's Anglican Church in appreciation for the long-term use of the hall. (Total income R88 000 Total expenses R29 000 (including R8000 in royalties). We would like to thank one and all: those who spent hours working on the set, our volunteers, our wonderful actors who were willing to give up their time to rehearse, three times a week, for 3 months. And of course, our enthusiastic audiences, whose generous response made it all worth while.

We are all enriched by this uplifting experience. David Hall-Green and the BATS team.
